

Indigofera Jeans x Coyote Thunder collaboration

General Release, January 2017

Personality and place comeingle in the latest offering from Indigofera Jeans. Working for over a year with California artist Obi Kaufmann, the Stockholm-based outfitters are proud to present a capsule line of rugged men's apparel that blurs the line between equipment and clothing. Designed for the poet-adventurer hiking both the Sierra Nevada Mountains or on San Francisco's foggy beach, this new collaboration blazes a new trail, balancing a wilderness soul with an urban-ready vibe.

In this line, called the California Hiking Series, Indigofera continues their trademark obsession with craftsmanship, quality, simplicity and functional design in every piece and in every detail. Obi Kaufmann, author of the forthcoming California Field Atlas (coming September 2017 from Heyday books) lends his art and inspiration to this project, which includes a complete trail-ready outfit for the aspiring naturalist who is just as at home studying wildflowers as he is sipping whiskey down at the honky tonk.

- Coyote Blanket 100% wool
- California Hiking Jacket
- Field Painter Vest
- Muir Shirt
- Coyote Thunder Clint Jean; Japan Selvedge Natural Indigo
- Spirit of the Forest Bandana
- The California Field Atlas (book)

In addition to the clothes themselves, a sumptuously-illustrated blanket based on the paintings of Obi Kaufmann's #trailpaintings compliments the collection.

The European debut — Selvedge Run, Berlin — January.

The North American debut — Desert & Denim, Joshua Tree — February

Wholesale orders are currently being considered with a September 2017 ship date.

Obi Kaufmann posts his work as @coyotethunder on Instagram.

For sales information, please contact kari@indigoferajeans.com

Obi in the California Hiking Jacket, the Field Painter Vest and the Muir Shirt.